Calvin entered the Marines on June 9th 1899 for five years, and was discharged June 17th 1904. Calvin did not participate in the 1898 Spanish American War, and resulted in the Treaty of Paris – which was favorable to the U.S., followed by temporary American control of Cuba and indefinite colonial authority over Puerto Rico, Guam and the Philippines.

Calvin did participate in the Philippine Insurrection, which lasted between 1899 to 1902. This insurrection was also known as the Philippine–American War, and the Philippine War of Independence. It was conducted by an armed group of Filipino revolutionaries against the United States which arose from the struggle of the First Philippine Republic to gain independence following annexation by the United States. The war was part of a series of conflicts in the Philippine struggle for independence, preceded by the Philippine Revolution and the Spanish-American War.
